Increasing traffic congestion every year is causing air pollution, wasting time and productivity and diverse respiratory diseases. Moreover, the cost of solving or reducing traffic congestion is enormous. However, neglecting the traffic jam problem would increase the social problems among citizens. The number of vehicles has increased considerably in the city in the past five years. Due to this increase, the city roads witness frequently traffic congestions, but above all, the vehicles emitting pollutants are affecting the environment adversely.

The capital's vehicular population saw an addition of more than five lakh vehicles last year, registering an increase of over 4% according to the Delhi Economic Survey 2020-2021. In spite of the largest road network, through metro and bus services in major cities the transport system is not being able to keep pace with the growing demand. Consequently, more and more people use their private vehicles, leading to increase congestion on their roads.

In spite of these challenges people in India prefer road travel over air and other means of travel. Citizens of Delhi/ NCR have, time and again, pondered over the possibilities of how to reduce the traffic congestion in the city, especially during the peak hours. People should use public transport the government must increase the facilities of public transport, people should avoid the unnecessary collection of vehicles and should use carpool and vehicle sharing.

What is required is proper implementation of corrective measures by citizens to get an organized traffic management system.

Questions:

- i. Infer one reason for the following, based on information in paragraph 1.
Reducing traffic congestion is not easy because.....
- ii. The kind of pollution pointed out in the passage refers to

A. Water	B. Noise
C. Air	D. Both (B) and (C)
- iii. The vehicles emit pollutants which affect badly.
- iv. There are consequences of increasing vehicular congestion.

C. Implicit	D. Explicit
- v. The synonym of ponder is

 Read the following passage and the answer the questions that follow:

The deadliest virus of the 21st century was identified in China in December 2019. It is basically a respiratory virus which mainly affects the lungs. But the recent research shows that it has the potential to affect any body part. Covid-19 affects different people in different ways. Many critical care patients end up lying in ICU because of shortness of breath, low oxygen level and pneumonia. Most of the people who suffer from this virus develop mild to moderate illness and recover without hospitalization. The common symptoms of corona virus are fever, dry cough and shortness of breath whereas some of the less common symptoms of this virus are aches and pains, sore throat, diarrhoea, conjunctivitis, loss of taste or smell, a rash on the skin, etc. The virus generally enters the human body through breathing an air containing the virus. To stop the spread of this virus, people have been advised to wear masks, sanitise their hands and maintain social distance.

Answer the following questions:

The corona virus was first identified in

- (i) China (ii) India
(iii) America (iv) Brazil

* Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

Animals are great builders, using simple materials but employing sound engineering principles. Man has long used suspension bridges made of ropes of steel and concrete, which bear loads in tension. The webs of spider provide the most vivid examples of animal structures built entirely in tension. Spider web silk is so strong that many species of birds use it to build their nests. It has a stiffness index which is 30 times less than that of steel, yet has a tensile strength one and a half times as much as that of steel. Unlike steel, silk stretches to more than twice its original length before breaking. These qualities, it is now known, are owing to silk being a protein polymer composed of crystalline regions interspersed with regions of randomly arranged chains. Beavers are natural engineers. They use tree branches to construct dams, the divided end being pressed into the walls; this apparently serves to collect stress from a broad area and to focus it into a single trunk embedded in the substrate of the stream. The dams of the beaver have an angle of 45 degree on the downstream side. This enables the structure to resist the lateral pressure of water acting upstream. Constructing a very thick wall is uneconomical. Strength could also be provided to a thin wall by buttresses or by making the base wide. The nest of the termite is more than 2 metres high with a wide base which tapers at the top. This ensures greater resistance to shear forces.

Answer the following questions:

- (a) Sound engineering principals are used by:
(i) humans (ii) beavers and Spiders
(iii) birds (iv) all of the above
- (b) Silk is made up of
(i) protein (ii) polymer
(iii) protein polymer (iv) none of these
- (c) Constructing a very thick wall is economical. (T/F)
- (d) How is a dam different from a web?
- (e) How is tensile strength of silk more than that of steel?
